GoFlex will innovate, integrate and demonstrate smart-grid technologies, enabling the cost effective use of demand response in distribution grids:

- Increasing the grids available adaptation capacity
- Safely supporting an increasing share of renewable electricity generation
- Improving observability and manageability of distribution grid for use of demand response
- Supporting localized concentration of prosumers DR for DSO to prevent congestion and energy imbalance and avoid investments in transmission and distribution networks

GoFlex will start with 3 European demonstration sites involving over 400 prosumers from industry, buildings and transport - in Cyprus, Germany and Switzerland.

We aim to collaborate with all companies, initiatives and projects who want to push the market for energy flexibility, and are interested in exchanging experience and technology.
